

Direct Relief International

DRI is distributing diabetes supplies, IV fluids, antibiotics, anesthesia, sutures, and cardiovascular drugs to benefit Ukrainian refugees, as well as combat application tourniquets, bandages, and oxygen inside the country in anticipation of mass casualties from the war.

To learn more about this organization, go to <https://www.directrelief.org/news/>.

Here's some text you might want to use...

Direct Relief is a humanitarian group that provides medical supplies in disaster zones. Each shipment contains medicine and supplies requested explicitly by Ukraine's Ministry of Health, including medical oxygen concentrators, antibiotics, wound dressings, and respiratory medicine. It also includes more than 100 field medic packs, stocked with critical care resources like sutures and combat-application tourniquets.

Direct Relief has supported hospitals in Ukraine for years before the invasion. Since 2021, the organization has shipped over $27 million in medical aid to Ukraine. The most recent cache of assistance arrived a week before the invasion. It contained $5.4 million worth of cardiovascular drugs requested by a Ukrainian NGO that serves hospitals, ambulance stations and medical centers.